FROM WASHINGTON.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times gives the following on dits: From the report in the London Times of a recent hearing in one of "he cases pending in relation to rebal property, before Vice-Chancellor Wood, it appears that the recent newspaper comments in the United States in relation to the recent settlement, do ir justice to Messrs. Morse and Gibbs, the officers by whom it was arranged The arrangement provided for a statement under oath of all property under the control of Fraser, Trenholm & Co., and its transfer to the United States, subject to legal liens thereon for advances, such liens not to be allowed beyond £150,000. The whole legal lien was shown, by the sworn statement from the books of the firm named, sworn statement from the books of the firm named, to be £270,000, or thereabouts. The Chancery suits brought to recover the property were to be discontinued, each party paying its own costs. The property consisted chiefly of ships and of other property of a perishable character which, by the agreement, was to be at once sold, and the proceeds, after the discharge of the liens, paid to the United States. It is stated that after this settlement, other rebel agents voluntarily came forward and offered to surrender property, and that all or nearly all the rebel effects in Europe were about to be reduced to the possession of the United States, without suit, when the settlements Were about to be reduced to the possession of the United States, without suit, when the settlements were suspended by order of Mr. Seward. they were released and reached their homes this morning. They were confined in Castle Pinckney thirteen days. We congratulate them on their release from the military to the civil jurisdiction. [From the Louisville Journal, 21st.] William Brown, who certainly, if any man, deserves to be ranked as the successor of the notorious John A. Murrell, the Tennessee land pirate, murderer and desperado, has long ravaged Marion, Taylor and the surrounding counties. The mur-ders he has committed are innumerable, and the and a half, been supplying the pulpit of Bethesda Church. He came here as a stranger, but his faithfulness as a minister, his earnestness as a robberies he has perpetrated cannot be enumerated. He has been the terror of the section in which he lives, and no Scotch cateran ever crossed the Tweed into Northumberland, and "lifted" honest christian, and his urbanity as a gentleman, have endeared him to the people of his late charge, whose warmest good wishes will follow him to his new home in Virginia. We hope that he will find it a happy and permanent home, with an ample field of usefuless, and many friends to cheer him in the neth of duty. But wherever or whetever Saxon farmer's cattle, caused more terror than the cry in those sections of our State where Brown operated, that "Bill Brown is in the neigh-

Rob Roy McGregor, when he made a raid into the North of England, spared men, women and children, but made a decided demonstration upon herds of fat cattle. "Caterans must be fed." was Rob Roy's motto. "Neighbors must be bled," was the war-cry of Brown. When he went to the house of Mr. Absalom Jones, and borrowed his horse without his leave, Bill quietly choked Mrs. Jones until she was insensible, to keep her from raising an outcry, while her husband, equally as quietly, and much more valorously, "made for tall timber." William Whaley objected to Bill Williams' borrowing his watch without first giving him a pawnin the path of duty. But wherever or whatever may be his lot hereafter, he will nowhere be more highly revorenced or more affectionately remembered than by the people of Bethesda.

But it would be useless for us to go on and enumerate all of our hero's exploits. Suffice it to say, that he has been guilty of crimes enough to hang half a dozen better men than he. We hope that he will get his share of hanging, but that has nothing to do with the affair of last Friday night.

On the night mentioned, James Murphy, a constable, who hold a warrant for the arrest of Brown, summoned Samuel Bromfield, a son of James Bromfield, of Bromfield Station, on the Lebanon Branch Extension, to assist him in the arrest. found the unfortunate man lying on his face on the floor, with his throat cut from ear to ear. We believe that none save the said two are suspected. One of these has deserted, making good his escape on the night of the occurrence, and is still at large. Efforts have been made for his capture, the commanding officer of the company co-operating actively; but as yet these efforts are unsuccessful. The other one suspected is, we learn, in the guard house. In the meantime the Messrs. Cheatham are minus six hundred dollars.—Edgefield Advertiser. Mr. W. L. STOKE, of New York, lately delivered a very interesting and valuable lecture in that city, upon the "Early History of Newspapers in America." In the course of the lecture occurs the fol-

The New York Gazette was commenced by Wayman. In 1776 Wayman was arrested and imprisoned for a contempt of the Assembly, upon no other charge than that of two typographical errors in printing the speech of Sir Henry Moore, the Governor of the Colony. One of these errors consisted in printing the word never for ever, by reason of which the meaning of the sentence was reverse. of which the meaning of the sentence was reversed. Nothing on h ed. Nothing can be more annoying to authors and publishers than errors of the Press; and yet those who are unskilled in the art of printing can scarcely conceive the difficulty of avoiding them. To arrive at ordinary accuracy in a daily newspaper requires the reading and correction of at least two proofs; and even then an editor who has not become case-hardened by long endurance, will often be shocked at the transformation of sense into nonsense, or the murdering of one of his hap-piest conceit or the plucking of the point from one of his nea. t paragraphs, by a typographical error. In the early stages of the art of printing, errors were far more numerous than in books of modern execution. It was then very common for a volume of ordinary size to contain page upon page of errata at the close. One of the most remarkable instances of this kind was the curious treatise of Edward Leigh on "Religiou and Learning," published in 1656. At the close of the work was three fells pages of corrections in very wero three folio pages of corrections in very minute type. It is a singular fact that the edition of the Latin Vulgate by Pope Sixtus V., although carefully superintended, sheet by sheet, by His Holiness, has ever remained without a rival in typographical inaccuracy. Still more curious was the fact that the Pope, in the plonitude of his pontifical infallibility, prefixed to the first volume a bull of excommunication against any and every printer who, in reprinting the work, should ever make any alterations in the text. Among instances of typographical errors the lecture gave the following the property of the company of typographical errors the lecturer gave the fol-lowing: A lad in a printing office, who knew more about type-setting than he did of the Greek my-thology, in looking over a poem they were print-ing, came upon the name of Hecate, one of the lady divinities of the lower world, occurring in a line like this: "She shall reign the Hecate of the deepest Hell." The boy, thinking he had discovered an error, ran to the master printer, and inquired eagerly whether there was E in eat. "Why, no, you blockhoad," was the roply. Away was the leve to the mean room, and extracted the why, no, you blockhoad," was the roply. Away went the boy to the press-room and extracted the objectional letter. But fancy the horror of both poet and publisher when the poem appeared with the line—"She shall reign the He Cat of the deopost Hell." This, however, was not so bad as the manner in which the printers treated Miss Landon. In speaking of it she says: And when I had written "full blown roses" the nasty things made it "full blown noses." Benjamin Franklin once putting to press a "form" of the Common Prayer, the letter c in the following passage dropped out unperceived by him, 'we shall all be changed in the twinkling of an eye.'" When the book appear-ed, to the horror of the devont worshippers, the passage read : "We shall all be hanged in the twinkling of an cyc." Franklin has been suspected of having done this intentionally, but it appears to me without good reason. But, after all, when it is considered of how many separate and minute pieces of metal a book form or the page of a newspaper is composed, the wonder is that the errors of the Press are not far more numerous than they are. A single page of one of our largest papers cannot contain less than 315,000 separate pieces of metal, each of which must be nicely adjusted in its own proper place, or error and conf

A MILLION PERSONS STARVED TO DEATH .- A Calcutta correspondent of the London Times, December 7th, gives some painful details of the recent famine in the district of Orissa, in India. A government commissioner has prepared a report, of which it is said; A picture more heart-rending, facts more hidcous, could not be given. The commissioner esti-mates the deaths in Orissa alone at 500,000 to 600,-000, and in some places he admits that threefourths of the population have been carried off. Orissa had five millions. Add the mortality of crimes and blunders which it committed at every step. That it rejected the assistance of the people, lest they should acquire the consciousness of their own strength; that it purposely rendered the tricts, where the sequence, at least, of starvation, carried off many, and remember that the deaths are still going on at the rate of a hundred a day, and you will agree with the rough estimate gene ally accepted here, that the number of victims will not be under a million.

SARATOGA "EXCELSIOR" SPRING WATER

THE WATER OF THIS SPRING IS BELIEVED TO be unequalled by that of any other in the far-famed valley of Saratoga. Its virtues are such as have secured it the high encomiums of all who have used it, possessing, as it does, in an eminent degree, cathartic, diuretic, alterative and tonic qualities.

From SAMUEL HENRY DICKSON, M. D., Professor From SAMUEL HENRY DICKSON, M. D., Professor Practice of Physic, Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, formerly of Charleston, S. C.:

PHILADELPHIA, November 15, 1865.

I have been for a year or more past in the habit of taking the water of the "Excelsior" Spring of Saratoga. Accustomed during the great portion of my invalid lite to use the different waters of the several fountains which boil up along that remarkable valley, dependent, indeed, upon them for much of the comfort I enjoy, I am satisfied that the Excelsior Water is as well adapted as any other among them, if not more so, to the purposes for which they are generally employed. It is very agreeable, strongly impregnated with the carbonic acid, lively and sparking. * * I can heartily and conscientionally recommend it to all who need a gentle cathartic and diurctic.

The Water is put up in Pint and Quart bottles, and diurctic. SAMUEL HENRY DICKSON, M. D.

The Water is put up in Pint and Quart bottles, and packed in good order for shipping. Pints in boxes of four dozen each, and Quarts in boxes of two dozen each. All orders addressed to A. R. I have always recommended the Faber Polygrade Lead Pencils as the only pencils fitted for both ornanaental and mathematical drawing; but, after a thorough trial of the American Polygrade Lead Pencils, manunactured by the American Lead Pencil Company, New York, I find them superior to any pencil in use, even to the Faber or the old English Cumberland Lead Pencil, being a superior pencil for sketching, ornamental and mechanical drawing, and all the ordinary uses of a lead

ALL STYLES AND GRADES OF LEAD PENCUS of superior quality are manufactured and offered at fair terms to the Trade. The public invited to give the AMERICAN LEAD PENCIL the pre-

TESTIMONIAL.

These pencils are very finely graded and have a very smooth lead; even the softest pencils hold the point well; they are all that can be desired in a pencil. It gives me great pleasure to be able to assure Americans that they will no longer be compelled to depend upon Germany or any other foreign market for pencils.
